Developer to Demonstrate Pitching Arm

A new pitching machine, which can throw a strike every time, or can lay out grounders, flies, and pop-ups for fielding practice will be demonstrated for school and volunteer coaches of the area Saturday afternoon at 3:30 at Torrance Park.

The machine, called the Silver Arm, was developed by Benny Lefebvre of Inglewood, former tumbler and now seriously interested in baseball for boys.

Saturday's demonstration will be open to the public, local league officials say.

Lefebvre conducts an annual baseball camp for boys in Catalina each summer, it was reported here.
